5 THINGS TO KNOW

WELCOME TO METRO PHILLY

JOVAN ALFORD, SPORTS EDITOR

The Eagles are looking to get back into the win column on Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings in a rematch from last year's NFC title game. The Eagles defeated the Vikings, 38-7, en route to last season's Super Bowl LII win over the New England Patriots. This is a must-win for both: The Eagles are coming off a disappointing OT loss against the Titans, while the Vikings only have one win on the season. What must the Eagles do to salvage their season? Check out our game preview on page 15 and at Metro.us.

'SUGE' KNIGHT SENTENCED TO 28 YEARS IN PRISON

1 Former rap mogul Marion "Suge" Knight was sentenced in a Los Angeles courtroom on Thursday to 28 years in prison for manslaughter in the death of a man he ran over with his pickup truck outside a hamburger stand in 2015. The sentence appeared to forestall any chance of a future recording business comeback for Knight, 53, known as much for repeated run-ins with the law as for his career as a hip-hop executive promoting the likes of Snoop Dogg, Dr. Dre and Tupac Shakur during the 1990s. The co-founder of the influential label Death Row Records pleaded no contest on Sept. 20 to one count of voluntary manslaughter for the hit-and-run killing of 55-year-old Terry Carter. He admitted then to using a "deadly and dangerous weapon" on Jan. 29, 2015, when he ran down two men with his pickup truck in an altercation outside Tam's Burgers that spilled over from a quarrel on the nearby set of a TV commercial for the film "Straight Outta Compton." Carter later died of his injuries. The second man, Cle "Bone" Sloan, was left with a badly mangled left foot and head injuries.

TRUMP TO SIGN AVIATION BILL ON FRIDAY: OFFICIALS

2 President Donald Trump will sign a bill on Friday granting the U.S. government new powers to shoot down threatening drones and creating new consumer protections for airline passengers, officials said on Thursday. Trump is set to sign the bill on Friday that will, among other measures, bar airlines from removing seated passengers and require the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to write new rules to allow commercial drones to deliver packages. The U.S. Senate in a 93 to 6 vote on Wednesday approved a 1,200-page bill overseeing the FAA that includes some new airline passenger protections. For instance, the FAA must set minimum dimensions for passenger seats, including legroom and width "necessary for the safety of passengers." The bill also gives the Departments of Justice and Homeland Security new authority to disable or destroy drones if they pose a threat to government facilities. The Trump administration had said it did not have legal authority to address such threats. The bill also requires airlines to refund passengers for services they paid for but did not receive.

PROTESTERS DEMONSTRATE AGAINST BRETT KAVANAUGH

3 Protesters opposed to Supreme Court nominee Brett Kavanaugh hold a "We Believe Survivors" banner in the Hart Senate Office building in Washington, D.C., on Thursday. Senate Republicans pushed toward a make-or-break test vote on Kavanaugh as key GOP holdouts Jeff Flake and Susan Collins said an FBI investigation prompted by sexual misconduct allegations against him appeared to be thorough.

JUDGE ORDERS MUSK, SEC TO JUSTIFY SETTLEMENT

4 A federal judge on Thursday gave Tesla Inc. Chief Executive Elon Musk and the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission one week to justify their settlement to resolve securities fraud charges against the head of the electric car company. U.S. District Judge Alison Nathan in Manhattan said her regular practice is to have parties submit a joint letter, in this case by Oct. 11, to show why their settlement was fair and reasonable and would not hurt the public interest. Musk and Tesla agreed to pay $20 million each, and Musk agreed to step aside as Tesla's chairman for three years, to settle charges that Musk misled investors in a series of tweets on Aug. 7. These included a tweet saying there was "funding secured" to take the Palo Alto, California-based company private at $420 per share. Tesla was not charged with fraud. The settlement was announced on Sept. 29, two days after Musk was charged. Nathan "may want to know why Tesla is paying a fine because the CEO doesn't know when to shut up," said Adam Pritchard, a University of Michigan law professor.

NASA HOLE MYSTERY REMAINS UNSOLVED

5 NASA sought to tamp down speculation that sabotage caused a tiny hole found last month in the side of a Russian module docked at the International Space Station, but the mystery remained unsolved. NASA stressed in a brief statement that Dimitri Rogozin, general director of the Russian space agency Roscosmos, had in public comments this week ruled out a manufacturing defect as the cause. However, NASA added, "This conclusion does not necessarily mean the hole was created intentionally or with mal-intent," as some media outlets interpreted Rogozin's remarks as suggesting. Rather than giving greater credence to foul play, the elimination of a manufacturing defect as causing the hole "indicates that this is an isolated issue which does not categorically affect future production," NASA said. Roscosmos and NASA have each opened their own investigations of the 2-millimeter-wide hole detected in late August on the exterior wall of a Russian Soyuz capsule docked to the space station after ground operators reported slight dips in pressure levels.

Republicans set vote on Kavanaugh as Democrats denounce report

The report may have swayed Sens. Flake and Collins.

GETTY IMAGES

Confidence grew among President Donald Trump's fellow Republicans on Thursday that Brett Kavanaugh would win Senate confirmation to the U.S. Supreme Court, after positive comments from two wavering lawmakers about an FBI report on accusations of sexual misconduct by the judge.

The report, sent by the White House to the Senate Judiciary Committee in the middle of the night, was denounced by Democrats as a whitewash that was too narrow in scope and ignored critical witnesses. But Republicans moved forward with plans for a key procedural vote on Friday and a final vote on Saturday on confirming the conservative federal appeals judge chosen by Trump for a lifetime job on the nation's top court.

The FBI report represented the latest twist in a pitched political battle over Kavanaugh, and comments by two crucial Republican senators — Jeff Flake and Susan Collins — indicated it may have allayed concerns they had about the judge. Flake was instrumental in getting Trump to order the FBI investigation last Friday.

Republicans control the Senate by a razor-thin margin, meaning the votes of those two could be crucial in securing Kavanaugh's confirmation.

Collins said the investigation appeared to be thorough. Flake said he saw no additional corroborating information against Kavanaugh, although he was "still reading" it.

A previously undecided Democratic senator, Heidi Heitkamp, said she would vote against Kavanaugh, citing "concerns about his past conduct" and questions about his "temperament, honesty and impartiality" after his angry, defiant testimony a week ago to the Senate Judiciary Committee. Heitkamp's decision left Sen. Joe Manchin as the only undecided Democrat.

Most Democrats opposed Trump's nomination of Kavanaugh from the outset. If confirmed, he would deepen conservative control of the court. The sharply partisan battle became an intense political drama when three women emerged to accuse Kavanaugh of sexual misconduct in the 1980s when he was in high school and college. Kavanaugh has denied the accusations.

"It smacks of a whitewash," Democratic Sen. Richard Blumenthal told reporters, saying the report should not give political cover for Republicans to vote for Kavanaugh because "it is blatantly incomplete." REUTERS

THE FOREMAN FORECAST: HIGH NOON FOR BART

ANALYSIS

TOM FOREMAN

CNN's Tom Foreman is the author of the book "My Year of Running Dangerously."

Like a bow-legged cowboy swinging down from his horse to the middle of a dusty street, Brett Kavanaugh appears to be finally facing a showdown. The witnesses for and against him have sounded off, the FBI has poked around, Donald Trump has aired his opinion (when doesn't he?) and Saturday the U.S. Senate is expected to finally confirm Kavanaugh as a Supreme Court justice or send him and his briefcase off into the sunset.

As I write this, confirmation seems slightly more likely than not for Kavanaugh, or Bart as his friends once called him. But who knows?

For opponents, the whole idea is a travesty. As various women, school chums, and others have paraded around on cable TV attesting to his once wild — potentially criminal — ways, the anti-Barts have howled. From their viewpoint, he behaved badly, exploited women, drank to excess, and then lied about it under oath. Toss in his belligerent response before that Senate committee late last week, and it's all more than enough to send them charging toward the Capitol to shout, get arrested, and do anything it takes to deny him a black robe.

But on the other side of the corral? That's a different story. While many of you may read this in a city where Democrats and liberals hold sway, in vast swaths of this country Republicans and conservatives rule. And they are not nearly as convinced that Bart did anything wrong. Many have embraced an amalgam of answers to the critics, including: 1) He was young/ that was long ago. 2) Men get falsely accused all the time (a presidential favorite!). 3) Democrats are just out to get him. 4) There's no real proof.

I'm not saying all or any of those pass the smell test. That's for you and your pals to sort out amid cool brews and hot words. What I am saying is this: As Bart squints and squares off to face the vote this weekend, a lot of Americans will be looking not for "a justice" but for justice itself. And whichever way the vote goes, many will find it missing.

US indicts 7 Russians in hacking of nuclear company Westinghouse

The U.S. and World Anti-Doping agencies were among the intended targets.

A Westinghouse Electric Co. turbine
GETTY IMAGES

The United States on Thursday charged seven Russian intelligence officers with conspiring to hack computers and steal data from the nuclear energy company Westinghouse Electric Co. as well as anti-doping watchdogs, sporting federations and an international agency probing the use of chemical weapons.

The charges of conspiracy to commit computer fraud and abuse and to commit wire fraud and money laundering came hours after Dutch authorities said they had disrupted an attempt by Russian intelligence agents to hack into the Hague-based Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons in April.

That organization is tasked with probing the use of chemical weapons in Syria and the March 2018 poisoning of a former Russian military intelligence officer in the United Kingdom.

The Justice Department said one of the Russian officers researched Westinghouse and its employees online and stole log-in credentials of Westinghouse workers for servers in the United States, including staff that work at its advanced nuclear reactor development and new reactor technology units.

Westinghouse, which is located outside Pittsburgh, provides fuel, services and nuclear power plant design to customers, including Ukraine. The company did not respond to a request for comment.

Three of the seven Russian military officers indicted on Thursday were charged in a separate case brought by Special Counsel Robert Mueller's office for their role in hacking activities designed to influence the 2016 presidential election.

In the indictment, prosecutors alleged that one of the Russian officers, Ivan Sergeyevich Yermakov, who was also charged by Mueller in the election-related hacking, performed "technical reconnaissance" on Westinghouse to gain access to IP addresses, domains and network ports starting in November 2014. Apple, Amazon deny Bloomberg report on Chinese hardware attack

Apple and Amazon denied a Bloomberg report on Thursday that their systems had been infiltrated by malicious computer chips inserted by Chinese intelligence, according to statements from the companies released by Bloomberg.

Bloomberg Businessweek cited 17 unnamed intelligence and company sources as saying that Chinese spies had placed computer chips inside equipment used by about 30 companies and multiple U.S. government agencies, which would give Beijing secret access to internal networks.

Representatives of Apple, the FBI and Department of Homeland Security could not be reached for comment. An NSA spokeswoman said she had no immediate comment.

GETTY IMAGES

China's Ministry of Foreign Affairs did not respond to a written request for comment. Beijing has previously denied allegations of orchestrating cyber attacks against Western companies.

Amazon Web Services said: "At no time, past or present, have we ever found any issues relating to modified hardware or malicious chips in Super Micro motherboards in any Elemental or Amazon systems. Additionally, we have not engaged in an investigation with the government."

Apple said it had refuted "virtually every aspect" of the story in on-record responses to Bloomberg. "Apple has never found malicious chips, 'hardware manipulations' or vulnerabilities purposely planted in any server," the company said.

Bloomberg said the report was accurate.

"Seventeen individual sources, including government officials and insiders at the companies, confirmed the manipulation of hardware and other elements of the attacks," it said in a statement. "We stand by our story and are confident in our reporting and sources."

Calgary, Stockholm Cortina/Milan OK'd for 2026 Olympic Games bids

GETTY IMAGES

The cities of Calgary and Stockholm and an Italian bid involving Cortina D'Ampezzo and Milan were given the green light on Thursday to proceed to bid for the 2026 Winter Olympics, but Turkey's Erzurum was dropped, the International Olympic Committee said.

The IOC Executive Board decided on the recommendation during a meeting earlier on Thursday and this will now be ratified by the IOC session in the next days.

IOC Vice President Juan Antonio Samaranch praised the three cities that made it to the next phase, saying they had what it took to host "a wonderful" event.

He said the Italian bid, which at one point included Turin before the city pulled out, was still good enough with two locations, even though specific questions of financing have not been settled yet.

"At this stage we have a very solid (Italian) project. Milan and Cortina are presenting a very interesting, attractive project," Samaranch, who heads the review of the 2026 bidders, told reporters.

"We understand that the government in Rome is fully supportive of the project. Of course we have details to discuss on financing."

The concept for the Turkish city, however, showed shortcomings in several issues, including transportation, telecommunications and airport infrastructure, Samaranch said.

The three cities are the last of initially seven candidates with Swiss city Sion, Japan's Sapporo and Graz in Austria pulling out in recent months, scared off by the cost and size as well as local opposition to the big event.

The IOC will elect the winning bid at its session in September 2019 but the decision on Thursday means that the session, which was to be held in Milan, will now be moved to Lausanne to avoid a conflict of interest as the Italian city is also bidding for the 2026 Games. REUTERS

GOOD MANNERS GO A LONG WAY

I am one of those people who say "you're welcome" when I hold the door open for someone who doesn't say "thank you" — and I say it LOUDLY. I am not looking for gratitude. I hold the door open out of consideration, respect and good manners toward the person coming through behind me and I would expect that person to show the same respect and good manners toward me. If they are struggling with children, shopping bags, etc., then it is even more fitting that they should say "thank you." It's just good manners, something there's too little of these days.

Aries Listen to what's being said, but don't agree to something that isn't right for you. A problem that can affect your position should not be made in haste.

Taurus Change can stabilize your life if it's done properly. Consider what makes you happy, and spend time more time enjoying life and the company of loved ones.

Gemini An emotional situation must be handled delicately. Deceit or fancy words and unrealistic promises will not help matters, but a kind gesture made in good faith will.

Cancer Plan some fun with family or friends. A change will lead to an emotional connection that will help improve your current living situation.

Leo Moderation will help you avoid unwanted change. You'll cause distress if you choose anger over compromise when trying to reach an agreement. Think matters through.

Virgo A change is warranted. Taking a trip or hanging out with people who have something interesting to offer will broaden your vision and give you incentive to do things differently.

Libra Turn today into a new beginning. With a positive attitude, you can enhance your life and improve relations with the people you care about most.

Scorpio Take on a new look and make unique lifestyle changes. Surround yourself with people and tools that inspire you to be your best.

Sagittarius A getaway will do you good. Having a peaceful moment to go over your current situation and consider your next move will be calming and will result in positive action.

Capricorn A change at home or to your friend group will remind you why you like things to stay the same. Be careful what you wish for.

Aquarius No one knows you better than you know yourself. Don't follow someone else's lead when it's not right for you. Follow your intelligence, not your heart, and do what's best for you.

Pisces Make a financial change. Whether it involves how you earn your living, handle your investments or live, it will lead to greater cash flow and less stress.

'Venom' director went to great lengths to make sure it was authentic to the comic

Ruben Fleischer talks us through his comic-book-inspired blockbuster. GREGORY WAKEMAN

Ruben Fleischer always knew that directing "Venom" would present him with a rare chance to make a unique comicbook movie.

"I was really excited to do a darker, grittier superhero movie," Fleischer tells Metro. "The opportunity that existed with this film was the chance to differentiate ourselves from all of the other comic-book movies out there."

But Fleischer quickly recognized that in order to do that he had to remain true and authentic to the "Venom" comics, even though he was missing one of the main components from the source material.

"We didn't want to short-change the fun factor of the comic book," says Fleischer. "Whether that's with the action, suspense or comedy, which some people will be surprised there's so much of in the film.

"That was my guiding principle throughout. I wanted to make sure that if we were making a 'Venom' movie that we were ultimately making it for the fans," he adds. "So I wanted to be sure that the movie we were making was as true and authentic to the comics as we could make it."

Since they weren't able to include Venom's arch-enemy Spider-Man in the movie, Fleischer admits that his team was "starting with a deficit, in terms of being true to the comics.

"In every other aspect, whether it was tonally or just giving nods to the comics, we really wanted it to be true to the comics as we could make it," says Fleischer.

The director's desired tone for "Venom" and the relationship between Tom Hardy's Eddie Brock and the alien symbiote that merges with his body was inspired by several movies. His biggest reference point being the 1981 cult classic "An American Werewolf In London," "which revolves around someone going through a transformation that they don't really understand.

"I wanted to make sure that if we were making a 'Venom' movie that we were ultimately making it for the fans"

"There's also a real theme of a buddy movie in our film," says Fleischer. "So I pulled from '48 Hours' and 'Midnight Run.'

"Where you get that sense of two characters that start out in opposition really going on a journey together and forging an unlikely friendship," he adds.

More specifically, though, Fleischer again insisted that its tone came straight from the "Venom" comics.

"It was always really important that the film was entertaining," says the director. "The first script I read for 'Venom' was really funny and had great jokes. So that was the tone from the beginning.

"But we all took our cues from the comics," he adds. "Eddie and Venom have a complicated but also entertaining relationship."

"Venom" opens in theaters Oct. 5.

A Sex Cream May Replace Popular Sex Pills for Men

Research shows a new topical may be a highly effective solution for men with failing sex lives; key ingredients activate special sensation pathways right below the skin, enhancing erections and triggering arousal

Daniel Watson
Medical News Today

BOSTON – The medical community now has a safer and more effective alternative to sex pills, which they can immediately start offering to male patients. It will not require a prescription.

The alternative, called Sensum+®, is an amazing new sex cream that activates a sensation pathway on the penis known as TRPA1.

When applied as directed, it leads to incredible arousal and much more satisfying erections.

It also promotes powerful climaxes and ultimately results in significant improvements in performance.

"Men can expect outstanding sexual improvements with regular use. The penis will become hyper sensitive, making them easily aroused and excitable" explains Dr. Henry Esber, the Boston based physician who introduced Sensum+® to market.

"And that's because Sensum+® does what no other sex pill or drug has done before – it stimulates a special sensory pathway right below the skin, which leads to phenomenal sensation."

Overtime, constant exposure (especially if circumcised) leads to decreased penis sensitivity, which can cause problems with arousal and erection quality. There just isn't enough feeling to get excited."

"Diabetes, anti-depressants and normal aging also leads to desensitization, a can make the situation even worse."

"This is what makes Sensum+® so effective and why the clinical studies and clinical use studies have been so positive."

MISDIAGNOSIS LEADS TO UNEEDED PRESCRIPTIONS

After years of clinical research and testing, Dr. Esber and his team have discovered an incredible compound that triggers arousal while helping men achieve erections more easily.

This compound isn't a drug. It's the active ingredient in Sensum+®.

And according to users, it produces sensational results. Many men report remarkable improvements in sexual performance and overall satisfaction.

They are more sexually active than they've been in years with the average Sensum+® user over the age of 50.

Clinical studies show Sensum+®'s key ingredient activates the TRPA1 sensation pathway right below the skin of the penis.

According to research, many men adults and seniors who suffer sexually have lost sensation in their penis due to constant rubbing and exposure and health related issues such as diabetes, hernia surgery, use of some anti-depressants, multiple sclerosis, and other type of illnesses.

This desensitization often makes sex extremely challenging. Without a 100% feeling in the penis, its next to impossible to get truly aroused.

Worse, modern day sex drugs have absolutely no effect on sensation and are laden with side effects. They simply stimulate an erection by enhancing blood flow.

It's why most men are rarely satisfied after taking them and why Sensum+® users are always stocking up on more and couldn't be happier.

"We knew the science behind Sensum+® was there, but we never expected results like we're seeing. It's far exceeded our expectations" said a spokesperson for the company.

A STAGGERING 80% IMPROVEMENT IN SENSATIVITY

Researchers have conducted several clinical studies on Sensum+® and the results from the most recent are undoubtedly the most impressive.

A data analysis of three clinical surveys of 370 men showed that an amazing 80% of Sensum+® users experienced dramatic improvements while using the cream and as a result were aroused easier and a phenomenal boost in performance.

Additionally, 77.4% of men also reported much more satisfying climaxes, making sex for both them and their partners nearly 300% more satisfying.

"I have full feeling and sensitivity back in my penis. Everything feels better. My erections are harder, I'm more easily aroused, I can finally climax again. This stuff honestly works like magic in the bedroom. I couldn't be happier at 66!" raves one Sensum+® user.

HOW SENSUM+® WORKS

Sensum+® is a new sex cream for men that's to be applied twice a day for the first two weeks then just once every day after.

There are no harmful side effects for either the user or partner. It also does not require a prescription.

The active ingredient is an organic compound known as cinnamaldehyde with a patented combination of sexually rousing extracts.

Research shows that as men get older, they often lose sensitivity to the penis.

Although very subtle, this desensitization can significantly hinder sexual performance and lead to serious problems with becoming aroused and staying/getting hard.

The cinnamaldehyde in Sensum+® is one of the only known ingredients to activate a special sensation pathway on the penis called TRPA1. Once activated, it restores tremendous sensation to the penis, stimulating arousal and powerful erections.

NEW SEX CREAM MAY REPLACE POPULAR SEX PILLS: This new patented clinically proven arousal cream is now available nationwide.

This would explain why so many users are experiencing impressive results so quickly and why the makers of Sensum+® offer their low cots cream with an amazing guarantee.

GUARANTEE DISCOUNTED SUPPLY TAKES RISK OFF CONSUMERS

A large percentage of men report life changing results with Sensum+®. That's why it is now being sold with an above-industry standard guarantee.

"We can only make this guarantee because we are 100% certain this cream works," says Esber.

"We want to take risk off the consumers. So besides offering massive discounts, we're also offering this guarantee, so they don't have to risk a cent."

Here's how it works: Use the cream exactly as directed and in just one week, you must feel a significant improvement in sexual sensations. You must be more easily aroused with harder, longer lasting erections and be having the best sex you've had in years.

Otherwise, simply return the empty bottles. Then, the company will refund your money immediately.

HOW TO GET SENSUM+®

This is the official release of Sensum+®. As such, the company is offering a special discounted supply to any reader who calls within the next 48 hours.

A special hotline number and discounted pricing has been created for all Pennsylvania residents. Discounts will be available starting today at 6:00AM and will automatically be applied to all callers.

Your Toll-Free Hotline number is 1-800-537-0661 and will only be open for the next 48 hours. Only a limited discounted supply of Sensum+® is currently available in your region.

Consumers who miss out on our current product inventory will have to wait until more becomes available and that could take weeks. The company advises not to wait. Call 1-800-537-0661 today.

Eagles vs. Vikings: 3 Things to watch for during Week 5

Both teams meet up in a rematch from last year's NFC title game.

JOVAN ALFORD
jovan.alford@metro.us

1. DR. JEKYLL/MR. COUSINS

You know how Stephen A. Smith says that the Dallas Cowboys are always an accident waiting to happen? The same notion can be applied to Minnesota Vikings quarterback Kirk Cousins.

Cousins is a quarterback who strings together great performances or plays but always makes that one mistake where it leaves you completely befuddled. This is what happened last week against the Rams.

The veteran signal caller had an outstanding game, completing 72 percent of his passes for 422 yards and three touchdowns. However, with 1:26 left in the game, Cousins was stripped from behind and turned the ball over to Los Angeles. That is the epitome of Dr. Jekyll/Mr. Cousins.

But when it comes to the Eagles, Cousins has been a thorn in their side over the last few seasons.

In seven games, he has completed 64.4 percent of his passes for 16 touchdowns and five interceptions. Those 16 touchdown passes are the most he's thrown against any team in his career.

For the Eagles to pull out a victory on Sunday, they need to apply pressure to Cousins early and often, because if they don't, it could be a long day for the secondary.

2. A BALANCED OFFENSIVE ATTACK

In last Sunday's game against Tennessee, the Eagles were not balanced at all on offense.

Under the direction of new offensive coordinator Mike Groh and head coach Doug Pederson, quarterback Carson Wentz threw the ball 50 times, while they only ran the ball 20 times. It was not a recipe for success as Wentz was left open to take numerous violent hits from Titan defenders.

Therefore, the Eagles' coaching staff cannot repeat this same performance against a Vikings defense, which has accumulated 11 sacks this season.

Philly should have running back Jay Ajayi on Sunday, but could be without Corey Clement and Darren Sproles for another week. Both players are dealing with nagging leg injuries and play essential roles in the Eagles' running back by committee system.

Nevertheless, the Eagles still must commit to running the ball more than 20 times as the Vikings have given up at least 100 rushing yards over these last two games.

3. EAGLES SECONDARY VS. VIKINGS WRS

It seems as if the secondary is a point of conversation every week this season, and for good reason: They have played horribly. Their bend-but-don't-break style has hurt them twice already because of poor fundamentals and lackluster tackling.

There's nothing wrong with playing off the line of scrimmage consistently, but you have to wrap up and tackle. One-armed tackles and getting continuously beat over the top will kill your defense.

If the Eagles' secondary thought things would get easier for them that is not the case. They now face the tough task of covering Vikings receivers Stefon Diggs, Adam Thielen, Laquon Treadwell and tight end Kyle Rudolph.

It will not be easy on Sunday, but one would hope that the Eagles' secondary learned their lesson from last week.

Eagles defensive coordinator Jim Schwartz made it clear earlier in the week that he will be sticking with cornerback Jalen Mills on the outside. Expect Minnesota to test Mills often along with rookie Avonte Maddox, who should get some snaps at safety.

The Eagles will hope for a repeat performance from the NFC title game against the Vikings in Week 5. GETTY IMAGES

NFL WEEK 5: Take Eagles in a toss-up

MetroBet takes a look at a pair of NFC East games.

ROBERT CRISCOLA
letters@metro.us

GIANTS AT PANTHERS (-7)

The Panthers look like the best bet of the week exiting their early bye. Carolina is just 2-1 on the year, but their lone loss was by only one score. They're 6-1 ATS in their last seven home games and have had two weeks to prepare for the Giants' shorthanded offense that will be without both Johnathan Stewart and Evan Engram. New York's offensive attack at full-strength wasn't anything to write home about anyway, as they're only 29th in scoring.

Carolina lives and dies with the running game, which is tops in the NFL by YPG. The Giants' sore spot on defense has been stopping the run, as they're ranked 29th by YPG in that department. Expect big production from Cam Newton and Christian McCaffrey as the Panthers roll to an easy win.

THE PICK: Panthers -7

VIKINGS AT EAGLES (-3)

It looks like oddsmakers weren't sure what to do with this game between two underachieving NFC teams. The Eagles are 2-2 and look to be suffering a bit of a Super Bowl hangover. The Vikings have essentially turned into the Kirk Cousins show, as he's carried a sorry run game and a surprisingly lackluster defense as best as he can, but it's resulted in a 1-2-1 record.

What the Eagles have done well, as they did in 2017, is control the ball. They're the best in the league in terms of time of possession, with a balanced offensive attack led by Carson Wentz, who is gradually working his way back from an ACL injury.

However, Minnesota has been awful in terms of time of possession this season, ranking 28th. That is mainly the result of their one-dimensional offense. Cousins leads the fourth-ranked passing offense in the league, but the run game has suffered sans Dalvin Cook, as the Vikings are last in the NFL in rushing YPG.

Expect the Eagles' home cooking (8-3 ATS in their last 11 at "The Linc") to continue on Sunday afternoon.

THE PICK: Eagles -3
